

STATUS OF THE JUDICIAL PANEL OF INQUIRY ON POLICE BRUTALITY AND OTHER RELATED OFFENCES

In October 2020, the National Economic Council (NEC) agreed to establish judicial panels in states, including the federal capital territory (FCT), to investigate cases of police brutality.

The decision was announced during the #EndSARS protests, when youths took to the streets in different parts of the country to call for the disbandment of the special anti-robbery squad (SARS).

29 states + FCT set up panels. As of October 18, 2022, 29 states have concluded sittings and submitted their reports to the NEC. FCT completed sitting on September 14, 2022 and submitted the report to the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC).

Out of the 29 states, only 4 states' reports are available to the public.
